

20 — Digital Marketing Agency

SMM · Ads · Content · Web · Retainers · 2026

Medium capital · Package services · Scale with systems + freelancers

How to move from solo freelancing to a small digital marketing agency that serves multiple Nigerian clients on monthly retainers. Covers service packaging, pricing, client acquisition and the systems needed to deliver without burnout.

1. What This Hustle Is

You package digital services (social media management, content, ads, basic web, email) and sell them as monthly retainers or project packages to businesses. Instead of trading pure hours, you sell outcomes and capacity. You start as a solo operator (or with 1–2 collaborators) and gradually productise delivery so you can take more clients or hire help. This is the natural scale-up path from several of the earlier hustles (SMM, ads, content, web).

2. Realistic Pricing & Income 2026 (Nigeria)

Package	Typical monthly fee	Notes
SMM starter (2 platforms)	■80k–■150k	Content + posting + light engagement
Ads management only	■60k–■200k	Ad spend separate
Full-service small retainer	■150k–■350k	SMM + content + basic reporting
Growth / multi-channel	■350k–■700k+	Strategy + SMM + ads + content

Three solid retainers at ■150k–■250k already produce strong income. Higher packages require clearer strategy, reporting and (often) a small team or reliable freelancers. Ad spend is almost always billed separately.

3. Service Packages That Sell

- Social media management (Instagram + TikTok/Facebook) with content calendar
- Meta / Google ads management (setup + optimisation + reporting)
- Content production (graphics, short video, captions)
- Simple website / landing page + basic SEO
- Combined “growth retainer” for small businesses that want one partner

4. From Freelancer to Agency (Practical Path)

1. Master 1–2 core services yourself (e.g. SMM + ads or content + web).
2. Document your process (briefs, calendars, reporting templates).
3. Package 2–3 clear monthly offers with fixed scope and price.
4. Land 2–3 retainers as a solo operator.
5. Bring in freelancers for overflow (design, writing, editing) while you keep strategy and client relationship.
6. Add simple systems (Notion/Trello, shared Drive, monthly report template).

5. Client Acquisition

- Leverage existing freelance clients and ask for referrals.
- Direct outreach to local SMEs, coaches, churches, schools and e-commerce brands.
- LinkedIn + Instagram presence showing results (even small case studies).
- Offer a paid audit or 2-week pilot instead of free work.
- Partner with web developers or accountants who serve the same clients.

6. Delivery Systems That Prevent Burnout

- Fixed content calendars and approval windows
- Clear revision limits in the contract
- Monthly reporting that focuses on a few metrics the client actually cares about
- Separate client folders and a simple project board
- Raise prices or reduce scope when fully booked

7. Common Mistakes

- Saying yes to every custom request and destroying margins.

- No written scope or payment terms.
- Trying to offer every digital service before mastering a few.
- Undercharging and then hiring help that the fees cannot support.
- Ignoring results reporting — clients leave when they cannot see value.

8. 60-Day Agency Starter Path

Days 1–20: Choose core services. Write 2–3 package offers. Create templates (brief, calendar, report). Optimise your own online presence.

Days 21–40: Outreach to 20–30 potential clients. Convert first 1–2 retainers. Deliver with heavy documentation.

Days 41–60: Refine packages from real delivery experience. Add one more client or one freelancer. Raise one price.

9. Action Checklist

- 2–3 clear service packages with prices and scope written
- Delivery templates (brief, calendar, report) ready
- Simple contract / agreement template
- Own website or strong LinkedIn/Instagram presence
- First outreach list of 20+ businesses
- Payment and invoicing system working
- Plan for bringing in freelancers when capacity is full
